

The Indiana law that prevents telemarketers from calling people who are on the do not call list works just fine. At the end of last year my phone was ringing 4-7 times a day from the telemarketers. If you didn't answer(the caller ID said unavailable) they would just keep calling until they wore you down and you answered. It was very annoying:you couldn't have a peaceful evening at home in your own house. Once the law took effect in January the difference was remarkable. NO MORE UNWANTED CALLS! It was heaven. Please do nothing that would water down our law. Hoosiers are happy with our law just as it is.

Thank you.
